The Foundation for the Child Victims of the Family Courts ~ (501C3 NON PROFIT) ~ FCVFC.ORG ~ Those who held the power of life and death are family court judges who rule by discretion – not by law – not by rules of evidence. Judicial discretion is so broad that law is rarely overturned in appeals courts – because family court judges may act sometimes with –sometimes without – sometimes in spite of the thoughts/recommendations of mental health professionals. The input of mental health professionals, particularly in the form of custody evaluations are subject to their own controversy as the custody evaluation process is deeply flawed. I am the Executive Director of the Foundation for The Child Victims of the Family Courts. We examine the violation of Federal Civil Rights and seek to remedy the wrongs perpetrated by courts and court appointed officials.
